

ABSTRACT

[0050] A support device secures a technician to a pole during elevated line work. The support device may be integrated with a safety strap to keep the technician from falling if the gaffs of the technician cut out from the pole.